Carbon Citizens hear Herald and Albertan Radio Concert.

A number of Carbon citizens gathered in Fred Morrisons store, and heard the Calgary Herald and Albertan concert Sunday evening. The first part of the evening the Herald concert could only be heard faintly, owing to the fact that a rain and thunder storm came up. Later when the storm subsided, the Albertan concert was picked up, and the songs and music selections were heard distinctly. Mr Grant of the Albertan was plainly heard when he said "Hello Mr F. Morrison, of Carbon, Alta. we hope you are enjoying our concert to-night."

About 11 o'clock Seattle was picked up, and one could hear very faintly, a woman singing. A storm near the mountains prevented the Receiver from catching the notes clearer.

Mr and Mrs C.C. Turcotte have sold their entire stock to Mr Silver formerly of Trochu, Alta. Mr Silver will occupy Mr Turcotte's store and will also carry a full line of men's dry goods.

Watch for posters for Mr M Silvers big dry goods sale.

Carbon was visited by a heavy rain storm last Friday which did a considerable amount of damage to the roads, culverts etc. The most damage was near the coulee east of the village. This culvert which was made about 1906 was so badly damaged that it will have to be rebuilt.

The work on the above has been already commenced and is in the charge of J. A. Ramsey who has had a great deal of experience in building roads, bridges etc. for the Alberta Government.

The flood last Friday washed out the cement foundation of the cellar in the Farmers Exchange warehouse. We understand the water was about 6 feet deep in this cellar.

Mr Boyle was a Calgary visitor this week.

Mr John McLean, Carbon school principal left for Edmonton July 4th and will be away about 3 weeks.

The annual Church parade of the Carbon Masonic Lodge was held on Sunday July 9th. A number of the Brethren of this fraternal organization attended the Carbon Presbyterian Church, in Masonic clothing. A most interesting and instructive address was given by Rev. Bro. D.E. Hattie giving an outline of their history from the building of king Solomons Temple, and explaining the connecting links of the Ancient Craft Guilds.

Mr J. A. McDonald is at present on a holiday trip.

Several Carbonites took a trip on the special excursion train run by the C.P.R. from Carbon to Calgary last week. They report a good time at the fair.

Be Vigilant

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. This is a maxim true in all walks of life, but it is especially true in the lives of Western Canada farmers during these admittedly trying years. Farmers with years of experience in these Prairie Provinces have come to understand conditions and well know what should be done, and can be done, better than anyone else, but the fact must be recognized that here in the West hundreds, yes thousands, of men are engaging in the work of agriculture who are more or less new to this country and have not yet gained that experience of conditions here which will enable them to combat adverse conditions with the largest possible measure of success. It may, therefore, not be out of place, and, indeed, of some value, to emphasize one or two factors which are essential to success in this country.

At the time of writing agricultural conditions in Western Canada are distinctly favorable; more favorable in fact than they have been for some years. According to mid-June reports from all parts of the West the growing crop is most promising. Alberta has more moisture than in any season for five or six years past, and both Saskatchewan and Alberta have been visited with copious rains over large areas, with the result that all grain is making splendid growth. The reduction in the acreage sown to wheat in some sections is fairly well offset by increases in other grains.

But, let it be repeated, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and liberty for the Western farmer at the present time means security from the many dangers which threaten the growing crops. Some things he cannot prevent—hail, for example. But where it is impossible for him to adopt preventive measures, he can provide some measure of security through insurance. The wise man will make such provision. If his crop escapes, he can well afford to pay the premium; if he suffers hail losses, he is the gainer and all is not lost.

In recent years the West has suffered enormously from the grasshopper pest. Experience has now shown how to successfully combat this scourge, and preparations for so doing have been made by Governments and municipalities on a large scale. It remains for the farmers, individually and collectively, to unite their forces and through the most effective co-operation with official agencies fight this scourge to a finish. As the motto of the Rotary Clubs say: "It can be done." It remains for the farmers during a comparatively short period to put up a fight. It is a fight which, if waged successfully this year, will likewise bring results in improved conditions in the years to come.

Then there is the weed pest. It, too, must be fought. Unless it is, it will conquer in the end, and, unfortunately, it is not merely the slothful, lazy, indifferent farmer who suffers from it, but his industrious neighbor as well, and the community as a whole. In districts where the late, wet spring made cropping of the land impossible, farmers should this year wage unremitting warfare on weeds, and the neglectful farmer in this respect should be brought to book by municipal authorities. If the individual farmer who allows his land to run to weeds suffered alone, it would be serious enough; but when through his slothfulness and neglect whole districts are threatened he should and must be made to act in the public interest if he will not in his own.

As the season advances, and the grains and grasses ripen and dry, all possible safeguards against fire should be provided. Last year property loss in Canada from fire totalled over $45,000,000, or more than $5.00 for every man, woman and child in Canada, not to speak of the even more serious loss of life and others injured and maimed for life. Fire in these Prairie Provinces is a serious thing because such a large proportion of the population live in rural parts where it is well nigh impossible to provide efficient fire-fighting appliances. Prevention is better than cure, especially in the case of fire where too frequently there can be no cure. At harvest and threshing time especially, let it be repeated, that in the matter of freedom from fire, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

Parliament and Legislatures, spurred on by the farmer representatives and organizations, are struggling with the grain marketing problem, seeking to devise ways and means whereby the farmer will receive an adequate monetary reward for his toil and husbandry, but their best efforts will hardly net as substantial results as can be achieved by many individual farmers for themselves through the taking of absolutely necessary precautions and thereby preventing losses against which legislation will not protect them.

Constant vigilance, and the taking of simple, commonsense precautions for a few short summer and early fall months may easily result in larger gains than all the legislation in the world can provide, and without which all legislation is futile.

BARELY LIVED THROUGH IT

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor, of Sault Ste Marie. From boyhood he writes: "I have been a constant sufferer from Asthma and Catarrh. My nose and throat was often stopped up, and I had disagreeable droppings from my throat. When an attack of coughing came on, it seemed as if I would barely lived through it. I would gasp for breath. Catarrh made me well. Its soothing healing action was exactly suited to my case." To those who suffer from Catarrh, Asthma, Throat Irritation and Bronchitis, Catarrh is highly recommended. Two months treatment one dollar, smaller sizes 25c & 50c at all dealers or The Catarrhzone Co., Montreal.

School Gardens

Child Led to Cultivate a Garden Will Likely be Willing to do Other
Helpful Work

It is an easy but harmful practice for a child to be coddled, in school and at home, and left to play until the dominant idea of the child comes to be that the world owes it a living and the chance to have a good time. It is a little harder but a great deal more serviceable to teach the child at home and elsewhere that the world owes and will give it nothing that is not paid for in honest labor. The child who is led to cultivate a garden regularly will very likely be willing to do other helpful work when occasion demands and at the same time will be cultivating a character full of promise for the duties of later years. —Kansas City Star.

HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst.

You have weak and dizzy spells, sinking sensations, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

We know of no remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy normal condition as will

MILBURN'S

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes: "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise, such as going upstairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip-hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near."

A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first one was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now although in my 66th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart-thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. At time of sickness I weighed 120 lbs., now I weigh 150."

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she would not be without them. They are the ideal home remedy for the baby; being guaranteed to be absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are a gentle but thorough laxative and have been proved of the greatest aid in cases of constipation, indigestion, colic, colds and simple fevers. Concerning them Mrs. Ernest Gagne, Beausejour, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and colic and have found them so successful that I would not be without them. I would strongly recommend every mother to keep a box in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Value of Raisins

Raisins Make Plain Foods More
Attractive and Healthful

Because of their valuable iron-content, delicious flavor and economy, raisins are becoming more and more popular in most every home. The addition of raisins to every-day foods makes them more tasty, and of greater health-benefit.

Many housewives have discovered too, that by flavoring with raisins they can popularize bread in their homes, making it one of the most attractive foods they serve.

The luscious sauce formed from the sugar of the raisins when they are baked in a loaf of bread, permeates the dough with a rich raisin flavor.

The sugar, in practically pre-digested form in raisins, is quickly turned into renewed vitality. When you are overworked and tired, it is because you have exhausted your energy. Then you need energizing nutriment, and a food like raisins, rich in sugar, will often revitalize you.

Organic iron, so plentiful in raisins, makes red blood. The blood assimilates it readily and none of the digestive organs are taxed. For building up enduring strength and energy there is probably no food combining this function with such a delicious flavor as raisins.

Many plain foods that you serve regularly can be made more attractive to every member of your household, and more beneficial in a healthful way, by adding raisins. This is especially true in warm weather, when the excessive heat saps so much of your energy. A good starter is raisin bread—buy a loaf from your baker tonight and serve it regularly. Its popularity in your home and its ability to replenish tired people toward the end of a warm day will surprise you.

A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE

It Seems So in Many Cases and Good Health is Always Necessary

Viscount, Saskatchewan.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness of the female organs. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and run down, as my 18-year-old daughter has taken it, and is quite her own gay self again."—Mrs. Fred. Wiley, Viscount, Saskatchewan.

I Live On A Farm

Upper New Horton, N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and they have done me a world of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as I live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this will help someone else."—Mrs. Wm. B. Knever, Upper New Horton, New Brunswick.

Automobile Roads in B.C.

Select Laxative Medicine With Great Care

In debility and weakness, medicine should be mild and far reaching. Many pills and purgatives are too hard, are drastic instead of curative. Excessive action is always followed by depression, and knowing this Dr. Hamilton devised his pills of Mandrake and Butterbur so as to mildly increase liver and kidney activity, so as to flush out the system of toning and regulating the bowels. Thus do Dr. Hamilton's Pills eliminate poisons from the body, thus do they restore clearness to the skin, thus do they renew health and strength. To keep your system in healthy good working order, regulate it with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c all dealers or The Catarrh-zone Co., Montreal.

I laughed. "I hope my application did not give you such a false impression," I said.

"I was just looking for false impressions," Miss Fiske replied. "When Dad said that you did not seem to have had the sort of experience that we wanted, and that he'd bet you were a lady that never done a day's work in your life—because you said 'shall' where we would say 'will'—I told him that I was going to have you anyway. You see," she finished apologetically, "I am the youngest of the family and the only girl, and I suppose I am spoiled."

After this explanation we talked with less constraint, and by the time we reached the farm I had classified Miss Gypsy as a new and very interesting specimen.

John Fiske is the proud owner of a model farm, and as such he has been photographed and interviewed for all the agricultural journals in the province. Unlike most of the farm homes we had passed, this one is surrounded by trees, the native poplars and Balm of Gileads, and magnificent Scotch firs that were planted thirty years ago by Mrs. Fiske when she came here a bride. The house stands on a natural terrace, and below this is a level stretch of lawn which reaches to the bank of the little river. At a good distance from the house are the barns and other outbuildings, among the latter being a galvanized-iron garage as obviously new as its owners.

"We'll just drive around to the kitchen door," said Miss Fiske. "Mother will likely be getting supper ready." Mrs. Fiske came to meet us and welcomed me kindly, but I could see that she too was rather surprised by my appearance. I am beginning to think that I must have an awfully helpless look!

"Just set here a minute," she said, after we had been introduced, "while Orvett takes the car to the garage." (She pronounces "Garage" to rhyme with "carriage.") "I haven't leave these potatoes long enough to take you upstairs."

Mrs. Fiske is a fine-looking woman, and it is evidently from her that Gypsy inherits her beautiful skin and odd colouring. But it is also quite evident that Mrs. Fiske's description of her as the stupidest critter she ever knew is not far wrong. Mrs. Mills probably did the best she could with a limited vocabulary, but if I were asked to describe Mrs. Fiske in one word, that word would be "bovine."

Gypsy came back in a few minutes and we went upstairs together. As we stood on the landing to admire the view, Mrs. Fiske called Gypsy back. In a moment she returned to me, smiling.

"Mother said I was to ask you if you would rather have the spare bedroom than the one that the other girls have had. I think that you will like the hired girl's room best—I know I do. Did you ever sleep on a feather tick in a room that is decorated by ten years' Christmas presents?"

I was obliged to admit that such a pleasure was still in store for me, and also that I would prefer to occupy the room that had been prepared for me. I have seen the feather tick and the Christmas presents since, and I think I chose wisely.

I was surprised to learn that the house contained a very up-to-date bathroom, the water for which is pumped by a gasoline engine from a well in the basement.

At the tea-table I met Mr. Fiske and the son, Fred. There is another son, the eldest of the family, who is married and living on a place of his own not far away. Gypsy tells me that Fred is to be married at Christmas, to the district school-teacher, and she adds that a teacher is as hard to keep in the country as a servant.

Mr. Fiske has four "hired men," but they do not have their meals with the family. In the old house, where room was at a premium, they did so; but now, at the risk of being called a snob, Mrs. Fiske sets the family table in the dining-room and the men eat in the kitchen. I have not read a great many stories of farm life in America, but in all that I have read the awkward labourer eating peas with a knife was one of the indispensable properties. Another illusion vanished.

When the evening work was done, Mr. and Mrs. Fiske and Gypsy and I met in the parlour to discuss my affairs.

Before I go any farther I must describe that parlour, the queerest mixture of good and bad taste that I have ever seen. A very good carpet was on the floor; and white lace curtains, elaborately draped and held in place by bows of red ribbon, covered the windows. The plush-covered "parlour suite" was made all the more glaring by a few pieces of really good oak. The pictures ranged from the Pears' Soap school in massive gilt frames to properly mounted sepia prints. And at one end of the room was a mirror-set organ, while at the other was the player-piano which was a birthday gift from Mr. Fiske to his daughter. In the midst of all this grandeur sat Mr. Fiske himself, coatless and collarless.

Gypsy broke the silence. "I guess you were right about Miss Eliot, Dad. I'm sorry I was so stubborn. But can't she stay and visit me until you find a really truly hired girl?"

"That is for Miss Eliot to say," Mr. Fiske replied with a kindly smile.

"Oh, I would love to stay, even if I did come under false pretences," I hastened to say; "but only if you will let me help around the house. I can do a few things, you know."

"Well, Mother, what do you say?" asked Mr. Fiske.

"I'd be real glad to have you stay, Miss Eliot," replied his wife. "Gypsy don't seem to take to the neighbours' girls, an' I often think that she must get lonely here all day with no young folks to talk to."

"Hurray!" exclaimed Gypsy. "I'm not such a dismal failure as an employment agent after all, am I?" And she hugged first her father and then her mother—and then gave me a shy little squeeze too!

So I wrote to Mrs. Arnold at once and told her I should be here as Gypsy's Fiske's guest for a couple of weeks, and then I felt that I could "turn right in and have a good time," according to Mr. Fiske's instructions.

For the benefit of philologists let me record that "right" is the most overworked word in the Canadian vocabulary.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no sight so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance.

When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys, until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

Old Fort Ellis and Sioux Indians

Crossing the Plains to Fort Carlton
Summer 1875.

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

On looking over my last article it may be that my readers will be left with the impression that Chief Factor Archie McDonald was a tyrannical, unjust man, but this was by no means the case. You, however, must understand that Hudson's Bay officers in charge of districts at this time had practically absolute powers. Truly, Canada had taken over the country, but her jurisdiction for all practical purposes ended when you left Fort Garry (now Winnipeg), and in the great realm of the Northwest the H. B. Co. ruled supreme. They had jails at many of their head posts, with handcuffs and leg irons for unruly servants, or law-breaking Indians, and they used them when required. Give absolute authority to any man and he is apt to become more or less of a despot. Shortly after leaving the Hudson's Bay service in 1883, and being at that time in poor health and circumstances, Mr. Archie McDonald was exceedingly kind and helped me to get a start on my own account.

To resume our trip across the plains. The rate of progress daily was governed by that of the loaded carts, whose squeals from wooden axles could be heard for miles, in spite of constant applications of grease. From twenty to twenty-five miles daily was a fair average and one must know that the ponies subsisted entirely on grass, as oats were unknown in the wilds. Consequently the men would start with the carts very early in the morning, while the bourgeois and us clerks would have breakfast much later and easily catch up with the train for dinner. Ahead of the party rode Chief Guide Jeune Homme, generally with me by his side, thirsting to imbibe all the plainsman's lore possible, and sometimes the other clerks were with us. Armed guards had to be set nightly, and the horses watched very carefully, for stealing was rife, and no doubt our large brigade was spied upon from time to time by scouting Indians. The prairie was covered with fresh buffalo sign and the guide's opinion was that a large herd was just to the south of us. In fact a few old bulls were sighted by our riders, but Mr. Ewen would not allow any hunting for fear of laming or injuring the horses, and this much to the disgust of we youngsters who were all anxious to shoot a buffalo.

About the tenth day out we met a small war party of Saulteaux coming in from the great plains to the southwest, en route to Fort Qu'Appelle. They met us all marching on foot, with drums beating, their headmen rigged out in scarlet cloth, paint and feathers galore. There was the usual shake hands and a smoke, then small presents were handed to them by Mr. McDonald and, in return, we received a welcome supply of tender young buffalo meat just killed the day before. They had no carts, only travois, that is the lodge poles, two of them lashed on each side of a pony, a parchment laced across behind the horse and on this robes, dressed buffalo leather, dried meat and pemican were piled, even their large split eared dogs were laden in the same way. With the exception of a violent windstorm that made things lively for a while, nothing of importance happened until we reached the south branch of the Saskatchewan, and here we had some fun in crossing the river, there being no ferry. We made rafts of the large wooden cart wheels over which buffalo parchments were laced securely, and in the centre of these rude craft were placed the women and children, all baggage, freight, etc. Swimmers were the motive power, and I could not say how many times I crossed the river. The large band of ponies were left to the last and Jeune Homme and I took them across, he explaining that on no account must we allow them to circle, but keep them going in a direct course, the remedy if one turned being to splash water in their faces. All went well but it took several days before the whole outfit was safely across. Another day's travel took us to Fort Carlton, which, unlike Ellis, was situated in the valley of the North Branch, close to the river, we arriving there without the loss of a pony or a pound of freight, much to the satisfaction of Chief Factor Lawrence Clark who ruled supreme over the Saskatchewan district with Carlton as headquarters. The fort was much on the same plan as Ellis, but in better order. This fine establishment was burnt in 1885 by accident, as the Mounted Police and Volunteers were evacuating it, after the defeat at Duck Lake.

I was detailed to lend a hand in the trading store and daily my erstwhile companies left for their various destinations. Some days after my arrival a packet arrived by canoe from Cumberland House (down the river), and that evening I was summoned to the office, where, in addition to Mr. Clarke, was Inspecting Chief Factor Robert Hamilton. They informed me there was a pressing vacancy at Cumberland, and they were considering changing my appointment from Mackenzie River to that point, but they would like to hear my views. It was all one to me, and so I told them, and it was then decided that I go down the river on the first opportunity. Mr. Hamilton, who came from Peterboro, Ont., and was an old friend of my father's, gave me much wise and kindly advice as to my future in the service where he had spent practically his life time.

Several weeks passed in very pleasant company as Mr. Clarke had a lovely daughter and there were several other ladies at the fort. Picnics, duck shooting and boating were the principal amusements and we, as birds of passage, were not asked to work very hard. A York boat arrived from up the river, and I received orders to embark next morning. The crew were Red River half-breeds and I took up my place in the stern sheets after saying good-bye all round. We stopped at Ft. La Corne for a short time, one Geo. Goodfellow was in charge, and I did not think then we would have stirring times together later on, but that, to quote Kipling, is another story. Drifting at night and occasionally rowing in the daytime, four days took us to the mouth of the Big Stone River, which empties out of Cumberland Lake into the Saskatchewan. A short pull against a strong current took us up to Cumberland Lake, which is quite an extensive sheet of water, and in a few minutes more we were at the wharf of the old historic Cumberland House which, it is said, was the first post established by the Hudson's Bay Company on the Saskatchewan River. Here ruled supreme Factor Horace Belanger, a French-Canadian, a man of great girth and jovial temperament, very widely known and much liked. He was a half-brother of Letellier de St. Just, at one time Lieut.-Governor of the province of Quebec.

Russians Sent Back To Canada

Russian Soviet Government Refused Them Admittance to Country.

New York.—Russians from Canada who attempted to return to Russia on the steamer Baltinger, have been refused admission, and have been forced to return to Canada, according to a cablegram received at the office of "Soviet Russia" in New York. The message was sent by Maxim Litvinov, representative of the Russian Soviet Government at Reval, and is dated May 17.

The message reads:

"The steamer Baltinger with a number of Russians from Canada arrived at Reval, but on account of our refusal to admit the passengers into Russia, was compelled to take them back. Give this fact the widest publicity, warning Russians against any attempt to reach Russia without passports vised by a Soviet representative."

Fix Time Limit For Disarmament

Allies Demand Reduction of German Army By June 30.

Berlin.—The time limit for disarmament by Germany is fixed absolutely as June 30 in an allied note presented to the German Government. The note which concerns execution of the recent ultimatum, demands that the organization of the German army of 100,000 be brought into conformity with the peace treaty by June 15, superfluous munitions and unauthorized fortress equipment surrendered by May 31 and all arms in possession of civilians by June 10.

Germany is required to endorse by May 30 the list of munition factories authorized by the Allies, and stop the output of unauthorized factories. The note further deals with the question of police and demands a reduction in all classes of police to a total of 150,000 by July 15.

Swedes Lower Cost Of Production

Wage Earners Resist Effort But Start Has Been Made.

Stockholm.—An effort to reduce wages and cost of production to the present lower level of prices is being resisted by Swedish wage earners generally, but a start has been made in the wood pulp and cellulose industry where wages have been lowered 15 per cent.

One of the largest electrical companies has also come to an agreement with its operatives for an adjustment to a lower basis.

Development of Holy Land.

London.—Headquarters of the World Zionist Organization received a declaration of the British Colonial Office that the British Government desires it clearly understood that in accepting the mandate for Palestine it is determined to maintain order in the country, and to develop all its natural resources for the benefit of the entire population.

Old Time Engineer At Age Of 76 Goes Back To Work On C.N.R.R.

"Although I am now past seventy-six years of age I am working every day, for Tanlac has put me back on the job after I had given up all work and didn't think I could ever get well," recently said C. L. Skinnick, 520 Maryland St., Winnipeg. Mr. Skinnick has spent the greater portion of his life on the sea, being Chief Engineer on several of the largest ocean liners plying the Atlantic. Twenty years ago he gave up the sea, and is now employed as stationary engineer by the Canadian National Railway.

"There is one thing I hope I never have again," he went on, "and that is rheumatism. It simply had the best of me and I was practically helpless. It had started four years before and I was so crippled up I couldn't do a lick of work. My knees were actually as stiff as boards and of mornings I had an awful time trying to get clothes on, why, the pains nearly killed me. My appetite went back on me and I got so I didn't want to eat a thing. I didn't know what a good night's rest meant and I was as weak as a baby.

"But it's all over with now, thank goodness. Tanlac has simply made a clean sweep of all my troubles and I feel like a man made all over again. Those pains have all disappeared and so has that stiffness and I am eating hearty and sleeping fine like I used to years ago. I take pleasure in speaking a good word for Tanlac. It has certainly done great work for me."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Lloyd George Says Britain Must Support Treaty

Premier Will Make No Retraction From Statements Regarding Silesia.

London.—Mr. Lloyd George issued a statement reiterating the British attitude toward the Upper Silesian question expressed by him in his recent speech in the House of Commons and disclaiming responsibility for the "distorted reports in the French newspapers."

In the course of the statement, Mr. Lloyd George said: "The fate of Upper Silesia must be decided by the Supreme Council and not by Korfanty."

He continued: "Children of the treaty cannot be allowed to break crockery in Europe with impunity. Somebody must place a restraining hand on them; otherwise there will be continual trouble."

"Great Britain," he added, "cannot consent to stand by while the treaty her representatives signed less than two years ago is being trampled upon."

The prime minister's statement began as follows: "I adhere to the statement I made in the House of Commons on the subject of Silesia. Naturally, I can only accept responsibility for what I actually said and not the truncated and distorted reports in the French newspapers. The almost unanimous approval given by the United States and the Italian, as well as the British press to the sentiments I then expressed, shows that the great nations who stood by the side of France in the war mean to interpret the treaty of Versailles fairly."

Crowds Jeer London Radicals Soldiers Take Places Of Women Clerks

Meeting Broken Up By Cheers For King and Queen.

London.—The temper of the people toward the Communists who were permitted to preach their doctrines here unhindered, was shown by an incident in Trafalgar Square the other day.

After the strains of the "Red Flag" had been started at a Communist meeting, a former officer, wounded so badly he could scarcely stand, stood up in front of the crowd numbering several thousand, and called for cheers for the King.

The response to his appeal was ear-splitting. This so enraged one of the women members of the Communist crowd that she rushed upon the officer and cuffed him roundly. Therefore he called for three cheers for the Queen, the Prince of Wales and finally for law and order.

This broke up the meeting.

Government Offices in Rome Taking On Disabled Men.

Rome.—The Association of Soldiers disabled in the war has invaded the offices of the state railways throughout Italy, with the object of preventing women from continuing their work.

At meetings, in which men clerks participated, it was decided to continue the agitation until all of the 5,000 disabled men who had applied for posts had been substituted for women clerks in government offices. The agitation is spreading.

The disabled men propose that only such women clerks should be retained in Government service as can prove that they are compelled to earn a living and can find no other occupation.

U.S. Objects To Salmon Treaty

Declare It Would Benefit Canadian Fishermen Only.

Washington.—The pending treaty between the United States and Great Britain to regulate sockeye salmon fishing in the waters of British Columbia and the state of Washington would operate to the benefit of the Canadian fishermen and the injury of United States fishermen, the senate foreign relations committee was told by Governor Harb of Washington, and Senator Jones, of the same state.

The witnesses declared that the treaty would regulate fishing only in part of Canadian waters, while it would restrict fishing in all Washington sockeye waters. Governor Harb said the state of Washington had enacted new laws, which would protect the salmon.

The House On Mercy Street

By Florence Kerigan

Miss Angela set her finger on a tiny little bell, and at once the throng of boys who were whooping madly up and down the hall and in and out of the rooms of the house on Mercy Street, came together in the living room and settled down to listen to the afternoon story.

They just adored Miss Angela. From the time she rented the little house and turned it into a clubhouse for the rough, tough dirty little boys of the neighborhood, they loved her. They exhibited her to their rough, tough, dirty friends with pride, and gradually became less rough, and less tough, and washed their faces now and then.

On that particular afternoon, when the soft air blew in the open window and made her fair hair stand out from her head like a misty, golden halo, and shook the faint perfume out of the bowl of lilacs on the table, she announced that she was going to tell them a story of knights and fair ladies and the spring. She settled herself in the seat of honor, and swept the circle of faces with her brown eyes which Abie Rabinowitz said were "just like these here, now, pansy flowers, ain't they?"—brown eyes which smiled at them all, from Abie to the mysterious, well-dressed, perfect-mannered Jack who came in every day to play.

Then, very simply and dramatically, she told the story of Sir Galahad and the Holy Grail, and all her hearers listened spellbound. And when it came to an end, they sat silent for a moment, then clamored for another.

Next, she told them a rollicking Irish folk-talk that made them laugh, and followed it with others until a factory whistle told her it was five o'clock and closing time for the clubhouse.

They found their hats and trooped out, but Miss Angela remained, and her shoulders drooped with sudden sadness.

That morning she had received a letter saying that she would have to leave the dear little house on Mercy Street, as the landlord wanted it for one of his friends. She had at once called up several influential men and tried to interest them in a campaign for establishing a community clubhouse to carry on the work begun, but without result. One of the men, John Davenport, told her frankly, that he was decidedly against such work—that the poor of the city could rise if they wished, without such waste of money. Still, with a heavy heart Miss Angela fought the thought of giving up her boys.

On Friday afternoon the boys were grouped about the piano singing a few favorite songs when a man's figure stopped in the doorway.

Miss Angela recognized the clear-cut, rather stern face of Mr. Davenport, and wondered what had brought him there. At the same instant Jack cried, "Dad!"

"Jack, what are you doing here?" The man's voice was well under control, but Miss Angela could see that he was very angry.

Jack stepped out bravely. "Dad, I'm sorry it had to be this way—but Hannah wouldn't let me come when I asked her. And they were having such fun! I got so tired playing by myself, Dad! Here we have the grandest times! Mickey Mulligan—that's Micky over there, has a sister and two rabbits and some white mice, and his father sings the funniest songs. And Abie Rabinowitz lives at a jeweler's store and his father let me look at some stones just like those of Mother's."

"Why, it's preposterous!" gasped Mr. Davenport. "I'm surprised at you, Jack. You, with all you have and all you are, coming here like this and playing with dirty ragamuffins!"

Jack squared his shoulders. "I haven't a thing. I haven't a mother to sing to me or smooth my hair or make me little cakes like Jimmy Casey's mother does, and I have no rabbits or cats or even a puppy—why, I've never even had mumps or measles! And I can't sing like Romolo Galacoe, or paint like Olaf Nels. I've just got a lot of old money that won't buy the things I want!" His lip quivered suddenly. "I love them all so much and—and—I never loved anybody before!"

"Old money that won't buy what I want!" The words struck deep, and made him think of the sweet wife money had not been able to hold—of the happiness that money had not brought him—of the mansion which held everything but love and joy.

Mickey Mulligan stepped to Jack's side. "If ye please, he's a good guy even if he is a swell, and we like him, sorr."

"Suppose you boys go outside and play," in a softer tone. "Miss Sheridan, will you tell me about this business?"

Miss Angela drew up a chair for her guest, and told him the whole story of the club and what she tried to make it stand for and the love of it made her eloquent. Her enthusiasm was infectious and at the end of an hour he was making plans with her for a larger club that would broaden into athletic activities. She shook her head, sadly.

"We're not all millionaires, Mr. Davenport."

"Don't you understand? I want to do it with you. You must count me in on it. Why, I wouldn't take a million dollars for the way these boys treat my son and the happiness they and you have given him. So, I'll see an architect tomorrow and we'll have a regular clubhouse right in this neighborhood!"

In spite of her protestations, he carried out his purpose and formed a habit of dropping in during their play hour and showing her the latest plans and talking over new things he had thought of.

Then, one day, he brought some new plans for her inspection. "Don't you think," wistfully, laying them before her, "that you could make a home out of one of these for you and me and a lonely little boy that never loved anyone before?"

Miss Angela promptly became very rosy and confused, but her answer must have been satisfactory, for some months later, the boys all met for a feast of ice-cream and cake on a very joyous occasion. And they presented her with a solid silver spoon bought with their own savings from Abie Rabinowitz's father who was a jeweler.

A Friend To the Aged!

When men and women get past middle life, their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

The heart action becomes weak and uncertain and the nerves more or less unsteady.

Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and here and there evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Those who wish to maintain their health and vigor and retain their energy unimpaired should use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They make the heart beat strong and regular, brace up and invigorate the nervous system, improve the memory, and impart a sense of buoyancy to the entire system.

Mrs. James Perry, Retlaw, Alta., writes:—"Some months ago I was not feeling well, my heart bothered me quite a lot, and my whole system seemed out of order. I sent and got two boxes of your pills. I took them a few days and my, what a change there was in me, and when I had taken the two boxes I felt so much better I quit them. Now I take them at intervals, and am fine although 72 years of age."

Lord Fisher's "Light Cruisers"

Chancellor Did Not Specify Size of Light Craft.

A characteristic story of the late Lord Fisher, and his capacity for getting his ideas carried out while at the Admiralty during the war, was told by Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Tudor at a meeting of the Institution of Naval Architects.

One day early in the struggle, when it was believed that the conflict would not last very long, Admiral Tudor said Lord Fisher came into his room and told him he had just had a long conversation with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who had agreed to the building of light craft up to light cruisers to any extent. The Chancellor of the Exchequer had not said how big the light cruisers were to be, so Lord Fisher said, "We will build two whoppers with 15-in. guns, big enough to knock any German light cruiser off the sea." This was the origin of the Furious, the Glorious and other ships of that class.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it is certainly helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."—Mrs. H. W. BAKER, 8874 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B.C.

Albert Co., N.B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."—Mrs. Wm. B. KIEVER, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N.B.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no sight so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance.

When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

Select Laxative Medicine With Great Care

In debility and weakness, medicine should be mild and far reaching. Many pills and purgatives are too hard, are drastic instead of curative. Excessive action is always followed by depression, and knowing this Dr. Hamilton devised his pills of Mandrake and Butternut so as to mildly increase liver and kidney activity, so as to flush out the system of toxins and regulating the bowels. Thus do Dr. Hamilton's Pills eliminate poisons from the body, thus do they restore clearness to the skin, thus do they renew health and strength. To keep your system in healthy good working order, regulate it with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Montreal.

I laughed. "I hope my application did not give you such a false impression," I said.

"I was just looking for false impressions," Miss Fiske replied. "When Dad said that you did not seem to have had the sort of experience that we wanted, and that he'd bet you were a lady that never done a day's work in your life—because you said 'shall' where we would say 'will'—I told him that I was going to have you anyway. You see," she finished apologetically, "I am the youngest of the family and the only girl, and I suppose I am spoiled."

After this explanation we talked with less constraint, and by the time we reached the farm I had classified Miss Gypsy as a new and very interesting specimen.

John Fiske is the proud owner of a model farm, and as such he has been photographed and interviewed for all the agricultural journals in the province. Unlike most of the farm homes we had passed, this one is surrounded by trees, the native poplars and Balm of Gileads, and magnificent Scotch firs that were planted thirty years ago by Mrs. Fiske when she came here a bride. The house stands on a natural terrace, and below this is a level stretch of lawn which reaches to the bank of the little river. At a good distance from the house are the barns and other outbuildings, among the latter being a galvanized-iron garage as obviously new as its owners.

"We'll just drive around to the kitchen door," said Miss Fiske. "Mother will likely be getting supper ready." Mrs. Fiske came to meet us and welcomed me kindly, but I could see that she too was rather surprised by my appearance. I am beginning to think that I must have an awfully helpless look!

"Just set here a minute," she said, after we had been introduced, "while Orvetty takes the car to the garage." (She pronounces "garage" to rhyme with "carriage.") "I daresn't leave these potatoes long enough to take you upstairs."

Mrs. Fiske is a fine-looking woman, and it is evidently from her that Gypsy inherits her beautiful skin and odd coloring. But it is also quite evident that Mrs. Mills's description of her as the stupidest critter she ever knew is not far wrong. Mrs. Mills probably did the best she could with a limited vocabulary, but if I were asked to describe Mrs. Fiske in one word, that word would be "bovine."

Gypsy came back in a few minutes and we went upstairs together. As we stood on the landing to admire the view, Mrs. Fiske called Gypsy back. In a moment she returned to me, smiling.

"Mother said I was to ask you if you would rather have the spare bedroom than the one that the other girls have had. I think that you will like the hired girl's room best—I know I do. Did you ever sleep on a feather tick in a room that is decorated by ten years' Christmas presents?"

I was obliged to admit that such a pleasure was still in store for me, and also that I would prefer to occupy the room that had been prepared for me. I have seen the feather tick and the Christmas presents since, and I think I chose wisely.

I was surprised to learn that the house contained a very up-to-date bathroom, the water for which is pumped by a gasoline engine from a well in the basement.

At the tea-table I met Mr. Fiske and the son, Fred. There is another son, the eldest of the family, who is married and living on a place of his own not far away. Gypsy tells me that Fred is to be married at Christmas, to the district school-teacher, and she adds that a teacher is as hard to keep in the country as a servant.

Mr. Fiske has four "hired men," but they do not have their meals with the family. In the old house, where room was at a premium, they did so; but now, at the risk of being called a snob, Mrs. Fiske sets the family table in the dining-room and the men eat in the kitchen. I have not read a great many stories of farm life in America, but in all that I have read the awkward labourer eating peas with a knife was one of the indispensable properties. Another illusion vanished.

When the evening work was done, Mr. and Mrs. Fiske and Gypsy and I met in the parlour to discuss my affairs.

Before I go any farther I must describe that parlour, the queerest mixture of good and bad taste that I have ever seen. A very good carpet was on the floor; and white lace curtains, elaborately draped and held in place by bows of red ribbon, covered the windows. The plush-covered "parlour suite" was made all the more glaring by a few pieces of really good oak. The pictures ranged from the Pears' Soap school in massive gilt frames to properly mounted sepia prints. And at one end of the room was a mirror-set organ, while at the other was the player-piano which was a birthday gift from Mr. Fiske to his daughter. In the midst of all this grandeur sat Mr. Fiske himself, coatless and collarless.

Gypsy broke the silence. "I guess you were right about Miss Eliot, Dad. I'm sorry I was so stubborn. But can't she stay and visit me until you find a really truly hired girl?"

"That is for Miss Eliot to say," Mr. Fiske replied with a kindly smile. "Oh, I would love to stay, even if I did come under false pretences. I hastened to say: 'but only if you will let me help around the house.' I can do a few things, you know."

"Well, Mother, what do you say?" asked Mr. Fiske.

"I'd be real glad to have you stay, Miss Eliot," replied his wife. "Gypsy don't seem to take to the neighbours' girls, an' I often think that she must get lonely here all day with no young folks to talk to."

"Hurray!" exclaimed Gypsy. "I'm not such a dismal failure, as an employment agent after all, am I?" And she hugged first her father and then her mother—and then gave me a shy little squeeze too!

So I wrote to Mrs. Arnold at once and told her I should be here as Gypsy's Fiske's guest for a couple of weeks, and then I felt that I could "turn right in and have a good time," according to Mr. Fiske's instructions.

For the benefit of philologists let me record that "right" is the most overworked word in the Canadian vocabulary.

CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrup was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Wise and experienced mothers know when their children are troubled with worms and lose no time in applying Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge. It is absolute in clearing the system of worms and restoring those healthy conditions without which there can be no comfort for the child, or hope of robust growth. It is a most trustworthy worm exterminator.

Airplane Flew by Itself

Remarkable Test With New Handley-Page Machine

The stability of the new Handley-Page W 8 B aeroplanes was demonstrated during a recent flight from Paris, when the pilot was able to fly with his hands off the controlling wheel from Beauvais, near Paris, to Croydon, a distance of roughly 200 miles. The directional steering was done by means of the rudder, the machine otherwise flying on a level keel, uncontrolled for nearly two hours.

Wretched from Asthma. Strength of body and vigor of mind are inevitably impaired by the visitations of asthma. Who can live under the cloud of recurring attacks and keep body and mind at their full efficiency? Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy dissipates the cloud by removing the cause. It does relieve. It does restore the sufferer to normal bodily trim and mental happiness.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief.

This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

Canada's Extensive Trade

Stands First in Volume of Commerce Per Head of Population

Addressing the parliamentary committee of the League of Nations, Sir Charles Gordon, one of the Canadian delegates, stated that in volume of imports and exports Canada stood fourth among the thirty-four nations represented. In volume of commerce per head of population Canada stands first, and in export trade third, being exceeded only by Great Britain and France.

THERE IS DANGER IN WATERY BLOOD

If Not Corrected Serious Results May Follow

In no trouble is delay or neglect more dangerous than anaemia, a poverty of the blood. It is very common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors. It makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized.

But taken in time there is a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had much success in the treatment of this stubborn trouble because of this wonderful property.

The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything can be. Take as an example the case of Miss Mary D. Kelly, Charlottetown, P.E.I., who says:—"My blood was thin and watery and my system very much run down. I could not do any work or walk upstairs without resting. I suffered greatly from headaches my appetite was poor and I was also troubled with indigestion. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a short time the results showed they were just the medicine I needed. I only used six boxes but am now feeling stronger and better than I have done for several years. From my personal experience I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Short Course for Publishers

Great Interest Being Taken in Conference of Western Weekly Newspaper Men

The first Short Course and Conference for Newspaper Publishers, which was held at Manitoba Agricultural College in August last year, provided four days of interest, value and enjoyment to the newspaper men who attended it and was the successful beginning of a community service of importance to the West. It is now an assured certainty that this year's Short Course and Conference, which likewise will be of four days' duration, beginning Tuesday, August 8, will be still more interesting and enjoyable and of greater value to those attending it. It will be a greater success, a success on a larger scale.

Governments and all other human institutions exist for the purpose of serving the community, and their justification for existence can be measured only by the value of their service to the community. The Department of Agriculture of Manitoba provides community service of many kinds and in varied ways; a large proportion of this service has Manitoba Agricultural College as its centre and basis of operation, and the improvement of agriculture, the betterment of the conditions of life and work of the men and women engaged in the basic industry of this country as its purpose. Every agency, method and system which serves that purpose serves and promotes the progress and prosperity of the country as a whole.

Nothing is more important in this connection than the promotion of a vigorous community spirit in every district. The local newspaper is, or should be, the voice of the community spirit. In co-operating with the local newspapers by means of the Short Course and Conference, Manitoba Agricultural College is thus doing a public service of inestimable value.

The committees in charge are making plans for the Short Course and Conference next August which will provide, as has been noted above, even more varied interest and enjoyment for each day than characterized last year's Short Course and Conference. The newspapermen who bring their wives with them will be doubly delighted, and so will their wives. There will be no lack of entertainment for either.

Manitoba Agricultural College, with its spacious buildings, beautiful surroundings, comfortable rooms and the good fare provided in its bright and airy dining hall, is an ideal place for such a gathering, especially in August.

The programme of addresses and discussions will afford opportunities of great value for the comparison of ideas, the exchanging of experiences and the assimilation of information. In addition there will be the newspaper competition conducted on similar lines to that of last year. The competition is open to newspapers published in towns of not more than 4,000 inhabitants between Lake Superior and British Columbia. Six prizes are offered besides the cup provided by the Linotype Company as the trophy for the winner of the first prize. There will also be two other competitions. One is for the cup offered by the Sales Managers' Association of Canada to the newspaper giving the best advertising service to local merchants during the month of July, 1922, and the other is the competition for the gold watch put up by the Toronto Type Foundry Co., Limited, for the newspaper giving the best local news service.

MRS. FRANK WILKIE, of Syracuse, N. Y., formerly matron at the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y., who says she is delighted with Tanlac since it restored her health after she suffered eight years.

"This is the first time in eight years that I have been free from stomach trouble and it is all because of the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," said Mrs. Frank Wilkie, 229 Cedar St., Syracuse. Mrs. Wilkie formerly resided in Buffalo and for two years was matron of the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y.

"I was eating scarcely enough to keep alive," she declared, "for I would rather not touch a bite than suffer the misery I knew would follow. Even sweet milk disagreed with me. I was sick in bed for two and three days at a time, and gas on my stomach made such awful pressure on my heart it almost cut off my breath. I had horrible dreams at night and in the morning was all tired out."

"Well, the longest day I live I will praise Tanlac, for my improvement has been simply remarkable. I have no more heartburn, my appetite is wonderful, I can eat most anything I want, and my sleep is sound and restful. I am thoroughly delighted with Tanlac. It is wonderful!"

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Three Hills Win

Carbon made a good start, scoring two goals in the first 12 minutes. Three Hills tied the score before the whistle blew, ending the first half.

The local boys were completely disorganized the second half, missing many good opportunities at the mouth of their opponents goal, while Three Hills, playing combination took every advantage and scored 4 goals.

For Carbon, Len Poxon and Owen played a steady game, Poxon accounting for one goal.
